Singapore (2 September 2015) – The Formula One party calendar will be in overdrive at Marina Bay Sands with some of the world's hottest DJs and music celebrities performing across three venues over the race weekend from 19 September to 21 September.

Road To Ultra, one of the biggest dance music festival brands in the world, makes its debut at Sands Expo and Convention Center on 19 September, headlined by Grammy Award-winning music producer and DJ Skrillex, Swedish powerhouse DJ Alesso and Dutch wunderkind Nicky Romero. The trio will be supported by American house DJs Mija and Ansolo. Ansolo, whose real name is Ansel Elgort, is also known for his acting chops, having starred in blockbusters such as The Fault In Our Stars. Tickets for Road to Ultra Singapore 2015 are available at S$168 and S$198 from www.marinabaysands.com/ticketing. Guests can also book in person at Marina Bay Sands Box Offices or by phone at +65 6688 8826. For more information please log onto www.MarinaBaySands.com or www.ultrasingapore.com.

Off the race track, the party circuit heats up with a power-packed programme at CÉ LA VI's Night Race Weekend 2015. Located on Sands SkyPark Tower 3, the club will have guest DJ appearances by English celebrity DJ Samantha Ronson, New York's party-rocker DJ Cassidy, Los Angeles Afro-Latin groove master Jose Marquez, and Jose Padilla, the Spanish DJ famed for his chilled-out tunes for beach club Café Del Mar in Ibiza. CÉ LA VI will also host the official Martini Racing party with local DJ Andrew T helming the decks on 19 September.

American hip-hop and RnB sensation Mya and Tay James, the official tour DJ of Justin Bieber, will be among the crowd-pullers at club lounge Pangaea from 19 to 21 September. Pangaea, located at one of the Crystal Pavilions, is set for a take-over by Toy RoOm, an internationally-renowned hip-hop club famous for its intimate parties. It will be the first time Toy RoOm is holding a pop-up event in Asia. Originally launched in London in 2014, Toy RoOm boasts an A-list celebrity clientele that includes the likes of pop stars Jessie J and Nicole Sherzinger, and has expanded its international footprint to Dubai and Mykonos. General admission tickets at S$218 are available from www.toyroomsingapore.com

Racing enthusiasts can delight in some late-night delicacies at The Bar at Waku Ghin² on 18 and 19 September, with the newly-created tuna rice bowl (S$60++) and beef rice bowl (S$70++), consisting of marinated Tonbo tuna or beef on preserved lemon rice with fresh wasabi from Shizuoka in Japan. The Bar at Waku Ghin has also concocted a special F1 drink, the Pole Position cocktail, using G'vine Gin, Midori melon liquor, Amaretto liquor, pine juice, and coconut syrup – the perfect tipple to complete the night.

Catch the trackside action from a bird's eye view at Sky on 57³, located on Sands SkyPark Tower 1 against the scenic backdrop of the beautiful city skyline and race circuit. From 14 – 27 September, Chef Justin Quek from Sky on 57 will be presenting the F1 Gastronomic Menu featuring an exquisite six-course dinner at S$198++ and a F1 Prestige five-course lunch menu for S$118++ per person. On race day, guests can enjoy the beautiful outdoors at the newly refurbished outdoor lounge, Flight⁴, with live screening of the F1 race over a selection of canapés and a bottle of Magnum-sized Champagne from R&L Legras Justin Quek Selection, for a group of five guests at S$1,188++.

Long Chim⁵ by David Thompson has prepared a SG Grand Prix 2015 set menu (S$149++ per person) featuring an assembly of its most popular specialties in sharing plates, including the Chiang Mai chicken relish with cabbage, chili and mint, and the Sour Orange Curry of Snakehead fish with water mimosa.

At CÉ LA VI⁶, guests can indulge in the restaurant's Night Race Tasting Menu while taking in live screenings of the race and the view of the Marina Bay street circuit. Created by Executive Chef Frederic Fauchaux, the premium menu features starters such as the Irish Salmon cured and soft shell crab maki. Other highlights include the Caramelized Pork Belly drizzled with edamame puree and teriyaki, and the Wagyu Beef with purple artichoke and prawn spring rolls. This menu is available from 16 to 23 September at CÉ LA VI Restaurant (S$208++ per person on weekdays, S$268++ during F1 weekend).

Over at The Shoppes at Marina Bay Sands, Indian fine-dining restaurant Punjab Grill⁷ will be serving a sumptuous F1 lunch and dinner menu (S$55++ per person) on 18 – 20 September featuring aromatic Lamb Seekh Kebab, which has been marinated in hand-pounded spices and chargrilled in tandoori-style, as well as the signature Patialial Shai Fish Curry.
